Upcoming Learning Opportunities

Alzheimer's Association Virtual Person-Centered Dementia Care
The curriculum is a train-the-trainer model created to prepare attendees already familiar with Alzheimer's and dementia care, to train direct care staff in a wide range of residential and community based settings. The 7-hour virtual training teaches attendees how to deliver the 13-hour curriculum based on the person-centered model of Habilitation Therapy. There are scholarships available that are grant supported by AgingME GWEP. We would like to make these available to as many of our long term care and assisted living communities as possible.

Taking Care of Your Mental Health and Well Being: Warning Signs of Trauma, Anxiety and Depression
May 27, 2020, 6:00 pm - 7:00 pm
This session, led by Dr. Brent Forester, will identify key components of mental health and ways to care for yourself during these challenging times of COVID-19. Due to significant losses direct care staff are experiencing on the front line, it is important to recognize symptoms of trauma, anxiety and depression. Everyone experiences trauma differently, based on their own life experiences. By recognizing symptoms, professionals can identify warning signs of clinical depression, significant anxiety and post-traumatic stress disorder that may warrant further evaluation by a medical professional. Attendees will have the option to submit questions in advance or during the presentation.

Morally Distressing Events in Healthcare Workers During the Coronavirus (COVID-19) Outbreak
Sonya Norman, PhD
Wednesday, May 20 at 2 p.m. ET
Although it is not typical for healthcare workers to experience significant distress from difficult situations at work, unprecedented contexts, such as a pandemic, may cause some healthcare workers to experience morally distressing events. Morally distressing events refer to experiences that contradict personal or shared values or expectations. Feelings resulting from these experiences can include guilt, shame, distress or intrusive thoughts or images, anger, reduced readiness and, if the person experiences betrayal, reduced confidence in leaders or the organization. This webinar will help mental health and other healthcare providers understand how working in the current pandemic might result in experiences of morally distressing events for some healthcare workers. Strategies that workers, coworkers, and leaders can use to reduce the potential for morally distressing events and strategies that mental health care providers can use to reduce the distress associated with morally distressing events will be discussed.

Webinar 5/20: Locating Community-Based Resources
Register for the webinar on Wednesday, May 20, at 3:00 - 4:00 PM ET.
The Christopher & Dana Reeve Foundation’s Paralysis Resource Center (PRC) is offering a free webinar on the services of the Aging and Disability Networks including n4a and the Eldercare Locator.
People with spinal cord injury and paralysis are likely to need community-based services and supports offered through the aging and disability networks available in nearly every community in the U.S. This webinar includes an overview of the services provided by the aging services network that are currently used by people with spinal cord injury (health/wellness programs, caregiver support, in-home assistance, case management, transportation, home modification and legal services). Also covered is the role of the National Association of Area Agencies on Aging (n4a) and the Eldercare Locator in connecting people with critical resources to live independently in their own communities.

Webinar: Supporting Grandfamilies in a Pandemic
National Association of Area Agencies on Aging
5/21/2020 2:00 PM EDT
Join Generations United and n4a for a conversation on how the Aging Network can best support older adults raising grandchildren or other young relatives during this tumultuous time. The needs of grandfamilies are often great and always complicated even in good times. Add online learning, stay-at-home precautions and reduced access to services and supplies, and you have a population in need of extra help, now! Generations United’s experts will highlight the trends in these families’ current and emerging needs and share ideas for aging organizations to increase support to these older adults. A grandparent currently raising her grandchildren will share first-hand experience, and other grandfamily and AAA experts will join the conversation—as will you! In this COVID-19 era, sharing of emerging practices is critical, and we hope to capture local responses during the webinar.

Ageism is Bad for Your Health
Tuesday, May 26th, 2020, from 12:00 p.m. to 1:30 p.m.
Hosted by Tri-State Learning Collaborative on Aging
On Tuesday, May 26, from 12:00 to 1:30, we will focus on ageism, the negative impacts on our health and how we can change the conversation moving forward. During the recent COVID-19 response we saw a marked increase in ageist attitudes—from naming coronavirus the “Boomer Buster” to cartoons asking people to choose grandma or the economy. Join us to learn more about changing the conversation on aging in our current climate and how we move forward together with effective messaging. We will be joined by re-framing experts from New Hampshire, Vermont, Maine and from the national initiative.

Presenters:
- Patricia D'Antonio, Vice President, Professional Affairs, The Gerontological Society of America, Program Director, Reframing Aging Initiative
- Kelly Laflamme, Program Director, Endowment for Health
- Keliane Totten, Chief Officer, Community Engagement, Concord Regional VNA
- Jennifer Rabalais, Co-Director, Center on Aging and Community Living, Project Director, Institute on Disability, University of New Hampshire
- Angela Smith-Dieng, Director, Adult Services Division, Department of Disabilities, Aging and Independent Living, Vermont
- Mary Lou Ciolfi, Acting Administrator, HillHouse Assisted Living, Aging Services Consultant, Adjunct Faculty, University of New England
